

To my dear Motherland
with love.

It is my proud privilege to write a letter to my motherland who has seen many historic events, endured many wars right from Ramayan and Mahabharat to Kargil war of 1999. and the land which is coloured with the blood of great people, whom the history will never forget.

The thought of writing the letter to you when I went to watch a play based upon the Indian martyrs who gave their lives to make you Independent that time I realised that I was never been able to understand your real importance and it is very shameful to say but it true that I had never even talked with you then somehow I developed the courage to interact with you and decided to

I offer this letter to you in honour of the struggle you have undergone, but still you don't forget to take care of us and show your love towards us. You are the ancient land who is still endured for her beauty and kindness and it is not wrong to call you paradise.

You are the land who unveiled the secrets of Yoga, Vedas, Puranas and Upanishads but still beholding thousands of secrets to the mankind's greatest unsolved mysteries and indeed you are the great keeper of the gates of this unsolved mysteries.

You are the land who has who has given birth to many civilization and religions and also the given the shelter to homeless people like Parsis

India has different caste, creeds, religions, but there is only one thing that binds us together that is you. We love you we respect you and we can do anything to make happy and see shining with pride.

But still some people are not understanding your real importance they are polluting you and making you dull day by day but what a good hart you have that you are not punishing them I think one day they will realise that they are not polluting the world but hurting their own mother and they will try to save you and bring you to your beauty once again.

Yours lovingly
(ATHARVA)
